Desert Grave Discovery Hints Gold Slaying

FINDING OF BONES OPENS PLOT PROBE

Authorities Trace Scheme To 'Bait' Southern Californians

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—(UP)—California and Arizona peace officers today attempted to identify the skull and jawbone of a man they believe was slain on the Arizona desert in connection with a rumored plot to smuggle gold into the United States from Mexico.

The sun-whitened human remains were brought here by Sheriff T. A. Newman of Yuma, Ariz., in hopes that experts might be able to check the identity of the victim from an unusual piece of dental work.

The man's skull was split open as though he had been struck over the head with a heavy weapon, Sheriff Newman said. The remains were found in a shallow grave near Wellton, Ariz. The man apparently had been dead for three or four months he said.

"Smuggled Gold" Area

Newman said the area where the skeleton was found was one where "smuggled gold" frequently has been reported hidden. The scheme, he said, is to have wealthy Southern Californians come there to see the bullion.

The Arizona officers said he believed the victim whose bones were found near Wellton probably was killed and robbed of money he carried to invest in the asserted enterprise.

Harley McCoy, Los Angeles mining promoter who was one of the survivors of the bomb suicide of Dr. William D. Moriarty, Southern California university professor, was called in by officers in hopes he might be able to aid in the identification.

A man giving the name of Harley McCoy registered at a Wellton auto camp on Jan. 28, with a person giving the name of John Laidon.

The Arizona officer also said he had a telegram sent from Wellton on Jan. 28 to Eleanor Thonis, companion of McCoy the night Moriarty exploded the bomb which resulted in his death and the death of his wife.

McCoy, Miss Thonis and the girl's father, George Thonis, were unable to shed any light on the mystery.

Questioners said McCoy agreed to cooperate in the investigation and to go to Wellton, possibly today, if Arizona officers decided he could aid them.

AMY MOLLISON SETS NEW FLIGHT RECORD

"LITTLE AAA" AGAIN HIT BY JUDGE ALLEN

THE CALIFORNIA "little AAA" was again repudiated today by Superior Judge James L. Allen, who originally ruled the act unconstitutional, when he sustained a demurser to an amended complaint against Withers Brothers, Placentia shipping firm.

The court today did not allow the state leave to amend its complaint again, and therefore barred

GIRL MANIAC IS SHACKLED TO BED BY INSANE MOTHER

A GIRL MANIAC, shackled to her bed for six months by her insane mother, was found raving and gibbering today by officers who entered the home of Mrs. Anna Shanklin, 1401 East First street, and released the girl from her weird confinement.

Since last fall, Mayme Jewel, criminal charges against the mother, 28, the daughter, has been manacled to her bed, with leather anklets holding her feet, and ropes binding her arms to the side of the bed. A leather belt around her waist further bound her.

A complete disregard of sanitation aggravated the revolting spectacle that was brought to official attention a few days ago, following an investigation by Superior Judge James L. Allen.

As a result of the disclosure, District Attorney W. F. Menton today prepared to immediately institute either criminal proceedings or

Prisoner Makes Attempt on Life

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif., May 7.—(UP)—Reuben Melikian, 39, former Oakland butcher serving a seven-year sentence for an attempted robbery, was injured critically today in a 50-foot leap or fall which prison authorities said was a suicide attempt.

Prison physicians said Melikian probably would die from the injuries suffered in the plunge from the long stairway leading to the gallows room to a concrete al-

LITTLE GYPSY GIRL RETURNS HOME AFTER NEW ESCAPE

The little girl with the big yen for travel—eight-year-old Alta Kerr of Compton—who was picked up by Orange police, along with her 11-year-old brother, Jimmy, Jr., last April 3 in Orange, walked casually into Compton police station late last night and yawned a contrite apology for her second wanderlust escapade, which started Tuesday evening.

Tuesday night, after her father, James Kerr, sent out a frantic call for assistance, authorities threw out a "general alarm." When Alta reappeared, she answered all questions with a yawn and: "Oh, I've just been out. I'm ready to go home now."

On her previous "walkout," Alta forced searchers to catch up with her after a two-weeks' hunt. Her brother, following the first "walkout," was sent to a Utah ranch to live with his grandparents.

In March and April, Alta and Jimmy tramped along the highways and byways, drinking milk from bottles they found on front doorsteps, and making their beds in wood patches, "on a trip to Mexico." Alta was cared for at the home of Orange Police Chief George Franzzen for several days while officers were searching for Jimmy who escaped after once being taken into custody. Santa Ana police finally located Jimmy who, lonesome for his sister's company, gave himself up and related a story of sleeping in Birch Park for several nights. The children said their step-mother beat them.

General reductions in the government relief and work program in Orange county loomed today following closing of books on April's relief efforts which showed that a total of $200,011.11 was expended by the government in this county during April for relief and work relief.

Officials of the SRA here looked forward with considerable apprehension to a meeting of the State Relief Commission set for next Saturday, when the fate of the SRA is expected to be decided.

According to Director Terence H. Halloran of the Orange county SRA, there is a possibility that there will be no more SRA after May 15.

SRA funds will run out on May 15, Halloran said, and unless the relief commission finds some money which can be used, there will be no more direct relief and the burden would be turned over to the county. This would mean that right now 899 families would leave SRA rolls to become county charges. These families are receiving an average of about $30 a month now.

If the SRA program continues, it will be because it will be found possible to use other unexpended state funds to tide over the emergency, Halloran said, or that a special session of the legislature is called to advance relief funds.

In line with the retrenchment policy in effect, Director Halloran has released six more administrative employees in the local SRA office, leaving the total staff at 23 persons. During April the SRA expended $38,339.90 for direct relief, according to Assistant Auditor William Hynd. Relief was given to 1098 families.

The Works Progress Administration program here also is being curtailed, according to County Manager Dan Mulherron, who said the quota of 2629 cases set for the county will be reduced by 150 cases by June 1. The Silverado transient camp will be abolished Saturday night. Of the 100 men now here, 50 will be sent back to Los Angeles and the other 50 will be sent to the Black Star camp, the only remaining transient labor camp in the county, Mulherron said today.

During April the WPA expended a total of $161,621.21 for labor, making a grand total of $16,196.08 spent so far for WPA labor in this county, according to Auditor Harry G. Wetherell. During the month 327 were on the federal payroll and 2610 on WPA projects.

In the meantime, the National

He-employment Service continued Reemployment Service continued the majority of which are in agricultural fields. During April the Service placed a total of 728 men on jobs, 372 on PWA jobs, four in private employment not agricultural and 352 on farm jobs. The NRS sent 29 persons to WPA jobs during the month.

LEGGETT—Mrs. Blanche Leggett, 65, Orange, mother of three survivors, and two sisters, Mrs. Maud Stowell of Orange, and Mrs. Grace Vickers of Denair, Calif. Mrs. Leggett had lived in Orange 25 years, and was a member of the First Presbyterian church of that city. She was a native of Lowell, Kansas. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by the Gillogly funeral chapel, Orange.

72 YEAR OLD WANDERER ON VISIT TO CITY

Mother Bird Back At Old Nest Place

Appearing for the first time since late summer 1935, when she had reared to maturity one baby bird, a mother humming bird, which chose the nursery of Walter Meier on West Chapman avenue as the place to build her home, returned yesterday. She at once began a busy day of gathering cobwebs and filmy shreds to fashion a new nest in almost the identical spot she chose before.

The humming bird was watched with interest the year her nest was discovered on a long spray of white and green ivy but a few feet from the highway. The length of vine swayed with each passing breeze without disturbing either the mother or two tiny nestlings, one of which died before leaving the nest.

Last year Meier expected that the bird might return, but she apparently had selected another location. Yesterday she brought with her another mother humming bird. The other bird seems to be appraising her surroundings before starting home building operations.

SQUEEZE

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Down-town New Dealers seem to have been getting a little rough on the inside lately with Capitol Hill might handling the tax bill. That is, there are evidences of pressure being brought to bear on reluctant legislators by powers above.

The hill men (congressmen are often miscalled hill-billies by the down-towners) showed signs earlier of dissatisfaction with the new corporation earnings distribution feature of the tax bill. This was faintly noticeable among some Democratic members of the senate finance committee. On the inside, it was commonly said that four to six Democrats on the committee would tear those pages out of the tax draft if no one held back their hands.

Now the inside situation is a little different. The political handling of the bill by the down-towners has been exceptionally hard and shrewd. Observers can almost see certain senators squirming in their chairs from the invisible heat upon their backs.

Specific cases cannot be cited without involving confidences, but the facts are well enough known to all who have observed developments closely of late.

INSISTENCE

The result is that those who were expected to alter the administration bill in the senate have found themselves in political straightjackets. Whether they will yet choose to resist or go along peacefully is not decided. But the situation has swerved around to the point where the Oliphant crew of treasury campaigners for the bill has the upper hand.

Two weeks ago the Oliphant strategists were finding it necessary to make compromises. Now they are no longer amenable to new compromises and have quietly pushed aside some of the old ones.

Thus, while some of the glaring technical errors of the bill will be eliminated by the senate, the basic theory of forcing distribution of corporate earnings now is generally expected to be retained. Whether allowances will be made for corporate debt retirements is not yet clear.

POWER

The basis of the new heat, of course, is the old fact congressmen are running on the same ticket with President Roosevelt and dare not oppose him on any issue on which he is insistent. Apparently he is now insistent on the tax issue.

For the same reason, Senator LaFollette is not getting anywhere on his plan to put heavier income taxes on small tax payers. That is where more revenue can be most easily obtained, but it is not the thing to do in a campaign year.

SMOKE

Senate apathy toward the House tax bill is attributed by cloakroom scouts to politics and ignorance. The Democrats don't dare to defy the President, and the eight-decimal-point rates are so complicated that the Republicans can't frame a popular or technical counterattack.

FINES PAID BY 22 PERSONS IN POLICE COURT

Twenty-two persons appeared in court yesterday, 17 to pay fines for illegal parking, and four for speeding. Clarence Brady, 48, 202 Maple street, Santa Ana, was sentenced by Judge J. G. Mitchell to serve 30 days in jail on a drunk charge. Brady, court records show, recently completed a term in Lincoln Heights jail, Los Angeles, according to reports, and Tuesday night here, was warned to stay home, but failed to obey, according to arresting officers who found him on East Fourth street "too drunk to book."

Speakers who were fined included: Paul Temple, Los Angeles, $6; Francis Sherman, 408 East Third street, Santa Ana, $5; Royal Gammill, 936 West Myrtle, Santa Ana, $7; and James C. Warnick, Route 4, Santa Ana, $5. Illegal parkers who paid $1 per ticket were John A. Newcomer, F. E. Moore, J. W. Markel (2), G. L. Bates, A. M. Timm, A. M. Paris, B. W. Wigington, L. W. Haskill Jr., Richard H. Hobgood, R. L. Brosheir, Robert Gilbert, Virginia L. Warner, Harry Kutter, Fred Barmore, Walter Baker, Van L. Brown and W. T. Tucker.

Flying Around With Dale Deckert

Floyd Wright, chief pilot and mechanic at the Eddie Martin airport for several years, has branched out and will operate a flying school at the airport. Recently he leased the flying concession from Martin and will operate the aviation school and passenger business. Eddie Martin will continue as owner of the field, with his brother, Floyd, continuing as field manager and director of operations.

Jack Schilling of Santa Ana has the honor of being the first student to make his solo flight in the new Aeronca training ship recently purchased by the Floyd Wright School of Flying. Wright said that the students are finding the new ship extremely easy to handle.

Here's the story: Mr. Borah originally intended to enter the California primary, but he pulled out when it became apparent that it would develop into a Hoover-Landon contest. He preferred to let them fight it out without the benefit of his presence on the field. Figuring that Mr. Hoover has no chance of nomination regardless of the California outcome, and disliking Mr. Landon, the Idahoan did not want it said that he had messed up the situation.

Subsequently he whipped himself into a lather of prelude against the Kansas Governor. So on the eve of the primary he permitted "Campaign Manager" Hamilton Fish to send a telegram endorsing the unstructured (Hoover) slate. Mr. Borah refused to sign it, but he saw the message before it was sent. The incident is chiefly significant because it reveals the strength of the Idaho Progressives' stand against the "Kansas Coolidge."

PLAQUE

Although the Landon folks have bent backward to keep friends with both the Borah and Hoover factions, certain smart politicians recommend that he go out of his way to antagonize them. They insist that a display of daring strategy along this line will win the nomination, although they don't guarantee the election.

The faction building a backfire against the Kansan—the Hilles-Roraback-Pomery group—have no use for Mr. Hoover or Mr. Borah. They would like to dump both men—one a liberal and the other a conservative—once and for all. If the nomination of Landon would force both Hoover and Borah to "take a walk"—or to retire to the sidelines—eastern conservatives might regard the result as worth while. In short, Mr. Landon would save them from worse evils, for both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Borah may exercise their black magic in 1940.

KLAMATH, Ore. (UPI)—Local news dealers have been placed in the ticklish position of being the guardian of public morals. District Attorney Blackmer has called their attention to the Oregon state law against the sale of indecent and immoral magazines.

He urged a code of ethics to be observed by the dealers.

HAVEN NEIGHBORHOOD KIDS STAGE CIRCUS OF 20 ACTS

—And in this ring, ladies and gentlemen, you will see one of the most spectacular, death-defying, stupendous, hair-raising stunts ever presented before such a distinguished audience at a circus."

So said the ringmaster at the annual Neighborhood Circus staged by the three Haven lads at the Robert Haven home at 822 South Van Ness street last night, and he wasn't far wrong, the only difference being that the "spectacular, colossal, etc." acts staged were so funny that members of the audience would have rolled in the aisles—had there been any aisles.

As it was, a capacity crowd of 88 boys, girls, women and men paid cash admission last night to see the annual Haven Neighborhood Circus, the third event of its kind staged by the enterprising boys. The graduated bleachers were filled to capacity and the attending "physicians" decided an emergency operation was necessary. Because the audience could not stand the horrors of the operation, a sheet was held up while saws, hammers, etc., were piled skillfully by the "surgeons." The accident, but not the operation, was declared a success. When the sheet was drawn aside, the victim had disappeared and a mournful attendant was casting the last shovel of dirt over a "grave."

The evening was filled with fireworks, figuratively and literally. Climax to the evening's performance came with a sham battle, highlighted by an airplane crash. This clever stunt was arranged by having the burning "plane" slide down a wire from a pole and crash to the ground, while all lights were turned off. As the "plane" fell, a furious battle was being waged, lighted matches, firecrackers, bombs, etc., being hurled at the opposing "armies."

Many of the acts wowed the audience, one particularly. This was when one of the star performers was hurt in an accident when he fell off his tricycle. An ambulance with sirens screaming came to the scene, and the attending "physicians" decided an emergency operation was necessary.

News Of Orange County Communities

Luther F. Mallow Elected Mayor Of Laguna Beach

COUNCIL TOLD LIQUOR BEING SOLD TO MINORS

NEW MAYOR

Luther F. Mallow, named mayor of Laguna Beach at last night's city council session.

ANNUAL MUSIC FESTIVAL HELD FRIDAY NIGHT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 7.—Observance of National Music week in Orange county will culminate tomorrow night when the combined high school music departments of the county hold their annual music festival.

The festival will be sponsored by the Orange County High School Music Teachers' association and will be held in the auditorium of the Huntington Beach Union High school. According to Leland Green, of Garden Grove, who is president of the association, the program will start at 8 o'clock.

Application was made by the Shell Oil company for permission to demolish a 10-foot curved strip of curbing at the flatiron corner of El Paseo and Coast boulevard, where Shell is erecting a super-station. Representatives of Shell, armed with blue-prints and specifications, indicated the many different changes now under way, in reconstructing the station occupying the lot at the apex of town, opposite Forest avenue. Councilman Cummings, Bainbridge, Jester, and Mallow questioned the Shell representatives closely, emphasizing the fact that in their opinion, the added risk to pedestrians was something to be considered with utmost care, before permission to demolish the protective curbing would be forthcoming.

Owning to the peculiar formation of Coast boulevard at this particular point, it was felt that pedestrians should not be deprived of protection from south-bound automobile traffic entering the Shell lot. The city engineer and members of city council agreed to look over the situation and the actual location, no action to be taken until next meeting of the city council.

A total of $369 in fines was paid into the Laguna Beach city treasury via police court during April, according to a report filed by Judge C. C. Cravath. In the report were listed 36 traffic cases, fines being levied in $2, and suspended sentences being imposed in four. Criminal cases numbered 12, of which two were jailed, one given suspended sentence, one "floated" from town, and fines inflicted upon seven. The report was accepted, read and filed by city council.

CHOIR HONORS MOTHER WITH SONG SERVICE

Announcement was made today at the First Presbyterian church by O. Scott McFarland, minister, of the program for the Vesper Musicals which is to be sung by the Young People's Choir on this next Sunday, May 10 at 4:30 p. m. in honor of Mother's Day.

It was learned today from Mr. McFarland that in addition to the program of music which the choir is presenting, there is to be held a public service of dedication for the choir itself. This choir has now been functioning approximately five months under the present program of musical education in the Presbyterian church. The church has made it possible for each member to receive, in return for his services in the choir, private instruction in voice, and the results in the ensemble work of the group have amply justified the plan, McFarland said.

The anthems, which are largely sung a capella and from memory, are of the very highest type. Compositions of Bach, Palestrina, Bortniansky are studied, as well as some of later composers who have written in the approved style of the old masters. According to Mr. McFarland, the Young People's Choir is able not only to furnish a very high-calibre program for such an occasion as next Sunday's Vesper Musical, but can bring to the regular services of the church, a more refined atmosphere of worship, such as might have been found in the days of Bach.

The following is the program to be presented by this choir next Sunday at 4:30 in the Presbyterian church:

Organ—(a) "Reverie," Lucas;

PRESBYTERIAN CHOIR SINGS SUNDAY

Choir—(a) "Jesus, Priceless Treasure," Bach; (b) "Bless the Lord," Ivanoff; (c) "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones," German Melody; (d) "The Radiant Morn," Woodward.

Selected scriptures and prayer, O. Scott McFarland.

Choir—(a) "God So Loved the World," Stainer; (b) "Cherubim Song," Bortniansky; (c) "In Joseph's Lovely Garden," Dickinson.

Service of dedication for the Young People's Choir.

Choir—(a) "Alleluia! Christ Is Risen," Kopolyoff; (b) "All in the April Evening," Roberton; (c) "Hallelujah Chorus," (Messiah) Handel.

WARNING!

A "CARAVAN CAR" IS A USED CAR!

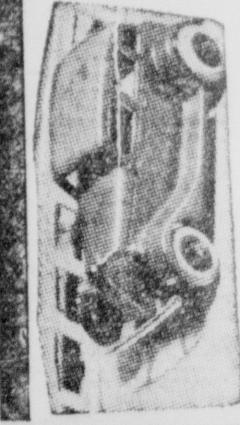

"CARAVAN" CAR, in the generally accepted term, is one which, starting from its manufacturer's plant new, has either been towed or driven on its own power to a point distant from that factory, where it is then offered for sale. It might be subjected, during the trip, to various hazards which would greatly impair its actual value before it reaches the hands of the purchaser. IT MIGHT EVEN BE SUBJECTED TO GREATER WEAR AND TEAR THAN A CAR WHICH HAS TRAVELED CONSIDERABLY MORE MILEAGE UNDER ORDINARY PRIVATE USE.

These facts are placed before the public by the Motor Car Dealers' Association of Santa Ana because in addition to feeling that you are entitled to the true facts, the members of this Association also wish to announce that they are opposed to the Caravan practice, feeling, as they do, that in order to convey cars here under careful guidance and control, changing oil regularly, and limiting speed to that normally consistent with a brand new car, the cost of so doing would more than overcome any saving in freight which could be effected; and for that reason the members of this Association secure their cars from the respective factories by freight and, THEREFORE, THE CARS ARE PLACED IN THE PURCHASERS HANDS WITHOUT MILEAGE OR USAGE OF ANY KIND EXCEPT THE FACTORY DRIVING TEST.

INDEPENDENTS ORGANIZE OWN BASKET LEAGUE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—(UPI)—Five leading Northern California independent colleges were banded together today in the Northern California Intercollegiate basketball conference, planned to stimulate interest in the cage game by giving the school teams something to play for.

Those who joined the new loop were St. Mary's, Santa Clara, University of San Francisco, San Jose State, and College of the Pacific.

Regional tryouts will include: Stanford stadium meet at Palo Alto June 13; University of Utah meet at Salt Lake City, June 20.

Sponsors of the new conference aims at somewhat radical methods of play in order to increase scoring and interest. The center-jump, eliminated by the Southern division of the Pacific Coast conference, would be restored in the N. C. I. B. A. games. In addition a plan whereby defenses would be limited to four men by requiring that the fifth man stay out of the defense zone may be tried.

Sam Dunne, graduate manager of the University of Santa Clara, was elected president of the new organization. Rod Chisholm of U. S. F. was chosen secretary. Others attending the organization meeting were Edward (Slip) Madigan of St. Mary's, Dudley DeGroot of San Jose State, and Ralph Francis of College of Pacific.

The conference intends to challenge the Southern division of the coast conference, to which Stanford, California, U. S. C., and U. C. L. A. belong, to a series between their respective companies at the end of each season.

President Kenneth Morrison announces three corrections in schedules. Games noted on June 3, 12 and 18 are now listed for June 4, 11 and 18.

JUNIOR OILERS SIGN PELTZER

Orange County league softballers got some bad news today. Huntington Beach announced the return of Pitcher Urban Peltzer, one of the best in the league last year. The Junior Oilers are a cinch to the thick of the pennant scramble with Peltzer on the ridge. The club also is after several other outstanding players. Paul Bowen, head man of the Huntington Beach "B" team, leaves for New York tonight. Manager Ken Miller takes his Santa Ana Oilers back to Irvine (Orange county park) tonight to play Anaheim's club of the County league.

In the three games he has played in the majors, the former San Francisco Seal outfielder, has made eight hits in 15 trips to the plate for an average of .533.

ENROLLMENTS IN CCC CAMPS IS EXTENDED

Enrollments in CCC have been again extended from May 1 to May 15, it was announced today through the Orange county welfare department, where it was revealed that the county has failed to enroll its quota of 125 in the corps, in response to the recent call from the government.

Approximately half of the quota allowed the county was enrolled, though the dead line was extended from April 20 to May 1.

Now the quota has been taken off, and the time limit for enrollment extended another two weeks. Youths between 18 and 25, who come from families on relief, are eligible.

More than 100 educational and vocational courses are open to youths who enroll in CCC, it was pointed out.

H. B. WELL FLOWING 200 BARRELS OIL

Representative Bertrand Snell, above, New York, again has been chosen to wield the gavel at Five Points, northeast of the city limits, is said to be flowing into the tanks. The company cleaned its tanks and sold the oil and then pulled the well and gave it a thorough cleaning, using chemicals. The oil has cleared up, it is said, and is flowing into the tank at the rate of 200 barrels a day. The pump is not being operated.

The second well started on the Dunn-Williams property line east of the first well 2000 feet has closed down temporarily, it is said, after rigging up and drilling about 1000 feet and setting the surface string.

The well at Bolas road and Huntington Beach highway between Oceanside and Midway City has reached a depth of 8000 feet. The company will not abandon the project until a depth of at least 8000 feet has been reached or they strike granite or volcanic formation, it is reported.

A special dramatic program designed to illustrate the value of music as a social influence in the community, will be presented over the NBC-Blue network (except KGO) from 8:30 to 9:00 a. m., in observance of National Music week.

New Twin Bill at Broadway Theater Starts Run Today

Joan Bennett and Cary Grant play the roles of the always scrapping, always making-up sweethearts in the dramatic comedy romance, "Big Brown Eyes," adapted from the novel of the same name, which opens at the Broadway theater today with a second feature, "Gentle Julia," famous Booth Tarkington comedy starring Little Jane Withers.

"Big Brown Eyes" is a story of a wise-cracking manicurist who sees all and knows all, and of how she helps her boy friend, the detective, solve a series of crimes that have baffled a city. Joan Bennett, who plays the manicurist, has a scrap with Grant and walks out on her job, winding up working for a newspaper columnist, just after a mysterious shooting in the park in which an innocent baby is killed. Joan's hunches succeed in tying the killing with a jewel robbery which has taken place, and mannevers the killers into such a spot that Grant can round them up.

"Gentle Julia" is the story of young folks in love and young in trouble. The new comedy feature teams Jane Withers with Jackie Searle, former Fullerton lad. Jane and Jackie are cousins, perpetually engaged in a feud. Jane's only other diversion is interfering with the erratic romances of her pretty aunt, Marsha Hunt. When George Meeker, "smoothie" from the big city, monopolizes all Miss Hunt's time, Jane and Tom Brown plot a bunch of crazy stunts that sometimes succeed but more often get them in trouble.

COURT ASKED TOASTMASTERS FOR TITLE TO HONORS WON BY OVER 100 LOTS DAVID CHERRY

Maurice Rissman today asked superior court to restore his title to 117 lots in Laurel Square, which he says he deeded away for a $2500 bad check.

His suit was filed against Anna Block, Dora Robb and Daniel D. Rissman, Dora Robb being the plaintiff's sister.

May 31, 1933, the complainant recites Rissman deeded a half-interest in the lots to Anna Block, on her promise to pay up taxes and delinquencies against the property, amounting to $2500. She gave him a draft on an eastern bank.

On May 27, he had deeded the other half-interest to his sister, Dora Robb, without consideration, and she had agreed to hold the property for his benefit, and reconvey it whenever a purchaser required it, he states. The reason for this step was not explained in the complaint.

On June 2, he alleges, Dora Robb conveyed her half-interest to Anna Block, without consideration, and without her brother's knowledge or consent. So Anna Block thus acquired complete title.

Subsequently her draft on the eastern bank was returned unpaid, so the taxes and delinquencies against the property still remain, Rissman states.

Meanwhile the property had been sold by Rissman on contract, and he has been receiving contract payments, up to March 1, this year. When these payments are completed, the purchaser will be entitled to a deed, and Rissman farces the necessity of regaining title, so that he may make the necessary conveyance when the time comes, he states.

He asks the court to require Anna Block to reconvey the property to him and also asks that title to the property be quieted against any claims of the defendants.

Court Notes

William C. Scouller has petitioned superior court to terminate the joint tenancy interest of his wife, the late Susie C. Scouller, in property at Huntington Beach.

Mrs. Magdalene Tvrlik, barbeque stand employee, today had filed suit in superior court for a divorce from Tony Tvrlik, on grounds of cruelty. They married at Iowa City, Iowa, May 18, 1934, and separated yesterday.

A truckman whose truck caught fire, the fire spreading to nearby oil company property, was sued to $1855 damages by the oil company's insurance company. The Atlas Insurance Company sued H. P. Tunstall for damage occurring to Huntington Beach Oil Company property last October 10.

His wife learned that he had a possible inheritance, so she caused him to be placed in a rest home, under restraint, and tried to have him declared incompetent. Earl C.

JIMMY FIDLER in HOLLYWOOD —

HOLLYWOOD — Idle chatter: Bill Gargan and brothers Ed and Joe seldom pal together because in association they quarrel and sometimes wind up in fistfights. Like nothing better than a fight, for or with each other. Despite his Latin-sophisticated screen roles, Cesare Romero is boyish as all getout. And he pronounces that name Ses-sar, if you don't mind. Off-screen, Charles Butterworth is one of the least funny film colonists. After every picture, Warner Baxter presents his stand-in with $100. The two have been employer-employee for more than a decade.

Bill Robinson wears a beautiful diamond tie-pin on all occasions; it was a gift from Eleanor Powell. Candidate for most graceful hands: Carole Lombard, Marion Talley is much publicized as owner of a 1600-acre Kansas ranch, but she is deathly afraid of horses. Louise Rainer gets a kick out of attending children's dramatic plays, and often may be found at primary school presentations. Joan Crawford and Rochelle Hudson are Hollywood's two most tan-crazy stars. Early each spring, they turn sun-worshippers, both courting the bronzed-skin leadership.

Erin O'Brien-Moore, concurrent with her screen work, is studying political economy at the University of Southern California. Al Jolson sun-bathes in the altogether; when masculine friends visit, he greets them sans garb. If the guests are feminine, Jolson dons a nondescript robe and slippers. Frank McHugh's screen specialty is playing "drunks" — and to abet his reputation he has collected an amazing fund of jokes about inebriated persons.

There is this paradox in the studio routine of dress extras: Although all hope for the "big chance," the smart ones keep their faces as far from cameras as possible. The reason: Good dress extras are scarce, and they may work in many scenes of the same picture, provided they do not stand so close to the camera that they may be recognized. Extras who dare close-ups are automatically eliminated from subsequent sequences. Thus, dress extras struggle between two desires: To be "discovered" via close-ups; or to remain undiscovered and secure more work. Most extras choose the latter course, because their earnings at best are limited and they need every possible dollar to continue to be well-groomed. They live an endless circle: Earn more money to dress better to work more often to earn more money. Repeat indefinitely.

Glenda Farrell tells me that a man living in Cleveland writes her letters in which he insists she is her father. He reviles her for refusing to send him money, but always signs off with, "I love you anyway." Miss Farrell's real father lives here in Hollywood and manages her business. Manages it to such an extent that Glenda has to go to him for any expenditure greater than five dollars.

This matter of people claiming relationship to stars is not unusual. Back in Massachusetts, there was a telephone official who boasted freely that he was Thelma Todd's brother. None doubted his word; his apparent intelligence and business position seemed to authenticate his claim. One day a Hollywood visitor met Miss Todd and mentioned knowing her brother on the Atlantic coast. It then came out that Thelma had no brother. Through investigation, the truth was revealed; the Eastern gentleman has been so intrigued by Thelma's screen personality that he decided she would make a fine sister. He commenced telling people she was, and he reached the point where he had almost convinced himself.

DEALERS CONDEMN SALE OF CARAVANNED AUTOMOBILES

As a means of suggesting to the general public what it deems to be legitimate business practice in the sale of automobiles here, the Santa Ana Motor Car Dealers' association, at a special meeting of its board of directors this week, adopted a resolution calling for the publicizing of merchandising practices now being used by members.

The resolution includes the statement that "it was necessary to take these steps in order to keep the motoring public of Santa Ana thoroughly conversant with trade practices in use in this city."

"Caravanned" automobiles selling in this district was condemned vigorously as having "worked a deception upon many buyers who, paying full delivery price, felt they were buying new automobiles, whereas in reality, they were purchasing cars which had been caravanned into the territory." The resolution pointed out that, in accordance with the newly adopted city ordinance, No. 1029, approved by city council last month, a caravanned car, or any car which has been driven, towed, or caused to travel upon its own wheels for a distance of 100 miles or more, is a "used car."

The following statement was made by the Santa Ana Motor Car Dealers' association, in connection with passage of its resolution this week:

"The Motor Car Dealers' association and its members are opposed to caravanning practice, feeling as it does, that in order to caravans cars here under careful guidance and control, the cost of so doing would more than overcame any saving which could be effected in freight, and further they also feel that many of the cars would be of questionable value after being subjected to the ordeal of caravanning, as, regardless of how careful the organization would be in selecting its drivers, it could not be expected that these hired employees would care for a car with the same degree of conscientiousness as the owners themselves, especially in view of the informal nature of such a trip."

"Then, too, they have been advised of the disasters which have befallen caravanned cars in other territories, where the practice has become even more pronounced than here in Orange county. In some of these territories, according to the Better Business Bureau and other local authorities, many destitute transients have been conveyed from the east and, without means of support, they naturally place upon the shoulders of the taxpayers of such a commun-

Dinner Bridge Group Honors Travel Couple

Comradeship is Theme Of Mother-Daughter Banquet

That informal group whose members dine and play contract together at more or less frequent intervals, last night made Colonel and Mrs. M. Burr Wellington's contemplated travels, the major event of dinner conversation in the Lloyd A. Chenoweth home, 2511 North Park boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Chenoweth really made the Wellingtons their honor guests at the dinner, and everyone expressed interest in plans which embrace a month's absence from Major Wellington's legal duties and Mrs. Wellington's social and club activities. They will embark to Los Angeles harbor on the S. S. Pennsylvania, whose sailing date has been announced for Sunday afternoon. Both are anticipating the voyage through the Canal, which they have never taken together, and a stay in New York City.

In Philadelphia they will take delivery on a new automobile in which the remainder of their travels will be taken. Business will intrude briefly in Washington, D. C., where Major Wellington has some legal matters to attend to, after which they will visit points of interest in the Capital City, and thence on the homeward trip across the continent, arriving in Santa Ana early in June.

When last night's dinner guests eventually turned their attention to bridge, men of the party proved their skill in contract for Messrs. White, Wellington and Spurgeon were winners at the three tables in play.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith were the only absents from the club group, and Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Hammond served as their substitutes, completing a party composed of the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Chenoweth, the honor guests, Major and Mrs. Wellington, Mr. and Mrs. Emrys D. White, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Spurgeon Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Carden.

Hermosa O. E. S.

Monday evening, Mrs. Jeanette Tarpy, deputy grand matron, paid an official visit to Hermosa chapter O. E. S. in Masonic temple. All the work was exemplified.

Miss Henrietta Bohling, worthy matron, presented Mrs. Tarpy with a gift from the chapter, a hand-painted china basket filled with pansies tied with a ribbon concealing a money gift. Mrs. Pearl Livesey sang "My Prayer" accompanied by Miss Mame Havens. Words and music were written by Mrs. Florence Hawkinson.

From tables centered with May-poles and May baskets, strawberry-fluff, cake and coffee were served. There was a special table for guests and officers with small basket place cards tied with ribbon from Miss Bohling's installation bouquet.

Mrs. Charles Gammel was in charge of refreshments, assisted by Mesdames Anabell Dobson, Lillian Earell, Bernice Echols, Sophia Divvers, Elizabeth Fairfield, Ida Goodwin, Ella Gowan and Minnie Harris. Messrs. George Goodwin, John Gowan and Charles Gammel assisted in pouring coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pease, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Moore and Mrs. Fannie Reeves were on the reception committee. Guests for the evening were Mrs. Alice Smith, worthy matron and Carlyle Clark, worthy patron of Garden Grove and Flora Bruns, worthy matron of Santa Ana chapter.

Tau Delta Phi Pledge Entertains Members At Bridge

A most enjoyable evening was spent Tuesday when Miss Edna, 2409 Heliotrope drive, entertained members of Tau Delta Phi sorority at a dessert bridge.

As additional entertainment for the evening the pledges gave an amusing amateur broadcasting program. In cards Mrs. Robert Smith received first prize, a box of stationery and Mrs. Alan Howell, second prize, a padded coat hanger.

Refreshments were served from prettily appointed tables centered with spring flowers, each guest receiving favors of clever corsets.

Members present were Mesdames Alan Howell, Robert Smith, Kenneth Maynard, Forrest Bennett, Gordon Cudworth, Wayne Bartholomew, John Taylor, the Misses Lucille Howell, Eunice Dossitt, Evelyn Hunton, Betty Vorce, Norma Wilson and Alberta Parsons. Pledges present were Mesdames Jack Kimmel, Kenneth Maynard, Claire McDuff, John Van Dyke and Miss Medora Smith.

Art Gallery To Benefit By County-Wide Social Affairs

Plans which have been under way for many weeks for a series of county-wide social affairs to benefit that definite asset to Orange county's cultural life, the Laguna Beach Art gallery, have at last emerged from their nebulous state and are ready to be announced to the public.

All members and guests entered the banquet room by walking the gangplank to board the "U.S.S. Comradeship." To each honor guest was presented a lei of bright flowers by the hostess group. Dinner tables were centered with small ships on blue mirrors, and place cards were given little white sailed vessels on a sea of blue. The ship motif appeared also on the bus programs which made souvenirs of the occasion.

From the greeting song of the daughters, to the finale, "End of a Perfect Day" sung by everyone, the program was one of inspiration and entertainment. After invocation by Mabel Morrison the Dorcas club president, Dorothy Loughron, introduced Juliette Fankner as toastmistress. Phelma Sullivan gave the toast of welcome, and Bessie Calhoue gave that to mothers, with Mrs. L. A. Hill responding.

A reading, "The One Legged Goose," by Hazel Martin; songs by Marjorie McDonald accompanied by Lillian Williams, and harps solos by Ruth Oakes comprised the program with a fine address on "Comradeship" by Mrs. John L. Thompson of California Christian college.

Guest Players Invited To Share Contract Club Games

Ebell Juniors To Be Headed By Mrs. Nalle

Mrs. W. B. Martin achieved a striking effect in decorations for her contract club this week, by combining sprays of fragile coral bells with the deeper toned red sweet peas in the flower clusters arranged about her home.

For her linen-spread card tables, where guests were grouped in foursomes for the enjoyment of a dessert course before turning their attention to bridge, she suggested the travels of the coming vacation months by the small silver ships that sailed blue mirror seas.

Two guests were entertained, Mrs. Charles Blackburn and Mrs. Harold Maylen, who played in place of Mrs. Fleetwood Bell and Mrs. Fred Earl, although Mrs. Earl lunched with the group before leaving for another engagement in the afternoon.

Officers elected to serve with Mrs. Nalle were Mrs. Harold Dale and Miss Elizabeth Smith, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. E. L. Smith, secretary; Mrs. Colby McKinney, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles E. McDonald Jr., curator. Installation will be held in connection with a luncheon in the clubhouse on June 6, with Mrs. Ralph Watson as chairman.

Individual cakes, jello whip and coffee were served at prettily appointed tables centered with Maypoles whose ribbons led to each nut cup. Tied to the ribbons and hidden in the flowery base of the Maypole were scrolls reading "Harriet and GENE"; "August"; "Mrs. Margaret Clardy of Burbank and Mrs. Charlotte Fleming of Anaheim, daughters of Mrs. Chapin, assisted with hostess duties.

Guests to whom the betrothal was revealed were the Misses Lois Courtney, Gladys Margaret, Jeannette Lewis, Georgina Irvin, Naomi Perinich, Fern and Marjorie Berkner, Mesdames Charles Bain, Martha Leithold, Stan Albin, Theola Holmes of Santa Ana; the Misses Robbie and Adeline Anderson, Evelyn Mosher, Lawrence Poirier, Don Harrison and Victor Fleming of Anaheim; Mrs. Harry Farlow and Miss Lois Farlow of Hollywood; Mrs. W. W. Kemps and Mrs. Ann Littlefield of Long Beach; Miss Bothel Dickinson and Mrs. Frankie Sylvester of Balboa; Mrs. A. L. Cook, Fuller; Mrs. Margaret Clardy of Burbank; Miss Blanche Hollingsworth of Laguna Beach and Miss Virginia McClellan of Costa Mesa.

Introduction of the speaker opened up a fascinating vista of foreign life for the club members. For as war correspondent Bert Vanzi, (San Francisco-born, of Italian and Swedish parentage) not only has been in Ethiopia recently, but spent seven months with the Riffs, and was in Manchuria as correspondent during the Sino-Japanese trouble.

He talked on conditions in Ethiopia, and dwelt on the personality of Haile Selassie and his linguistic ability among other characteristics.

The efficiency of the League of Nations was questioned in his address, and while he shares the belief general in this country, that war in Europe is imminent, he feels that America should keep out of such imbroglios.

Conclave Delegates

In advance of this informative address, the Juniors made many plans including those for representation at the state convention which will be held May 12 and 13 in Sacramento in connection with the general federation conclave.

One hundred and fifty or more members took part in this event, and were taken on a tour of the general federation conclave.

Officers and staff members provided special entertainment features which included songs and tap dances by pupils of the Estin Brooks Dancing school. Mary Katherine Harper and John Nash gave both songs and dances, while tap dances were done by Ralph Gulette and Leslie Adair. Mrs. E. Sargent was accompanist for the young people and Mrs. J. O. Gulette arranged their numbers.

A fiesta will be given in the home of Mrs. Glenn Curtis in Brea in honor of physician husbands some time in June. Mrs. Harry Huffman will be in charge.

Store Staffs Visit Los Angeles Plant

Staff members of the various Orange county Alpha Beta stores shared with their wives or husbands an interesting experience early this week, when they spent an evening as guests of Swift and Company at the Los Angeles refinery.

A hundred and fifty or more members took part in this event, and were taken on a tour of the general federation conclave.

Officers and staff members provided special entertainment features which included songs and tap dances by pupils of the Estin Brooks Dancing school. Mary Katherine Harper and John Nash gave both songs and dances, while tap dances were done by Ralph Gulette and Leslie Adair. Mrs. E. Sargent was accompanist for the young people and Mrs. J. O. Gulette arranged their numbers.

Details were discussed for the Book Review section dance on May 16 in Lido Isle clubhouse, and for the dinner dance on June 13 in Lakewood Country club. Miss Rosemary Newcomb's name was added to the list of committee members for this event.

Remainder of the business discussion was devoted to plans for the society's annual gifts to Senior Ebell and to worthy causes. Leading in this was the gift of one of the famous "talking books" for the blind, to be placed in Santa Ana library for the use of any blind person in the community.

Many Gifts

Club gifts will include card tables to augment a gift to be made by Ebell Fifth Household Economics section; a silver tea service with Mrs. C. B. McKinney and Mrs. Herbert Stroschner to investigate prices and patterns, and stage lights for the peacock room, with Miss Mary Bowyer to look into prices and equipment.

Votes on these gifts and on other business affairs of the evening were tabulated and announced by Miss Eleanor Crookshank, Mrs. Don Park, Mrs. Bruce Harbottle, Mrs. Ralph Watson.

Hostesses for the refreshment hour with which the session closed were Mrs. Robert Guild, chairman, whose duties were assumed by Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. Park, Mrs. Lee Smith, Mrs. Glenn Mathis and Mrs. C. Elstine.

"Guest Editor" today is Linn L. Shaw, former publisher of The Register. The "Guest Editor" selects his own subject matter and it may or may not agree with the opinions of the publisher. The Register will invite and publish daily a "guest editorial" by some prominent practical Orange county citizen.

OUR HARBOR AND OUR MOUNTAIN

In the general development of the Santa Ana Valley, which of course means Orange County and Santa Ana, the two greatest natural advantages of this section have been very wisely neglected—our harbor and our mountain.

Some of our pleasure harbor enthusiasts may resent this criticism, but I am not speaking of a pleasure harbor. What I mean is a commercial harbor in the upper bay, accommodating real ships for passengers and freight, giving us a terminal, or water rate, and putting us in the class of port cities.

I had the honor and pleasure of serving on the first harbor commission in this county, which body laid out the original plans and performed the first basic work which has resulted now in one of the finest yacht harbors on the coast. That is all to the good, and well worthy of all the pride and enthusiasm being manifested by our people. In the course of our studies of Newport Bay, however, our commission, its engineers, and every competent and experienced person with whom we came in contact was of the opinion that this bay was one of the finest natural commercial harbors in the world, and that its development as such would add more to the economic worth of this entire section than any other project open to our people.

Payrolls are what maintain prosperity in any city. And in this particular we must admit that Santa Ana is lacking. Our Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' Association and every other public body are constantly alert in the laudable endeavor to land any sort of manufacturing industry here for the payroll advantages which would thus be added. Every other inland town is similarly engaged, with very little success. A water, or terminal, rate, would settle this whole matter, because with equal freight rates with Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Stockton, and other port cities our many other advantages would bring industries and payrolls here. Even if we shipped only our own lumber through our own port the saving to our people would pay for the harbor. Every box of oranges shipped by water should go out of Newport Harbor, for the convenience and saving to the growers.

I cannot abuse the courtesy of the editor of The Register by consuming the entire space of the paper with more detailed reasons for a commercial harbor at Newport Bay, so we will consider this as merely a suggestion, which many of us harbor enthusiasts have been making for the last thirty or forty years; and so far as I am concerned I seem liable to be doing the same thing for thirty or forty more. Anyhow, I just want to peacefully remark, let's have a commercial harbor and go out and get payrolls.

MEXICAN SITUATION

The seriousness of the Mexican economic situation is somewhat illustrated by a ruling made by the Department of Government that has charge of the securities listed on the stock exchange.

Companies owning assets in Mexico are not obliged to report, even to the stockholders, what fraction of their total income comes from Mexico or what fraction of their assets are located in Mexico.

It is evident things are not sailing so smoothly in Mexico when the profits and assets of United States Corporations in Mexico have to be guarded with such secrecy; when they find it necessary to keep their earnings in secret to prevent them from being confiscated by taxation or labor regulations.

CERTAINLY WELL EXPRESSED

In J. P. Baumgartner's "guest editorial" on Wednesday, there was one sentence that was such a masterpiece it should again be called to the attention of our readers. He said, "In short, we must live by the Golden Rule, recognizing the fact that we are our brother's keeper, but demanding that he also shall be our keeper."

The part of the sentence, "but demanding that he also shall be our keeper," certainly helps clarify the interpretation of the Golden Rule. It does not relieve anyone of his responsibility to society. It also helps clarify the meaning of the word, co-operation.

The community is indebted to Mr. Baumgartner for this clear expression in his "guest editorial."

come interested in what I think is one of the two major enterprises which have so far been neglected by our people, then both the editor and myself may feel compensated for all this dual effort has cost.

TAXING DIVORCES

More and more Soviet Russia swings back toward the fundamental values of the home and of the family. In the last year there has been increasing agitation for strengthening the position and permanency of marriage.

And now comes the most significant move in the whole trend—a proposal to discourage divorces by taxation. It is embodied in the marriage law that is being drafted to double the tax for each divorce after the first.

What such a tax might do to some of our own 100 per cent American divorce court veterans is something to shudder at. But it is worth noticing that the Russians believe that its chief value will be a preventive of hasty marriages. To marry in haste and repeat at leisure is not so good, if the "leisure" gets progressively more costly.

NEW DEAL IS OLD DEAL

In Glenn Frank's article today on this page, he very clearly points out that the new deal is adopting monopolistic control, which is the condition the liberals tried to eliminate. He very clearly states that we must have more production instead of restricted production with higher prices; that we must have competition which will produce more, instead of a monopoly to produce less. Dr. Frank is developing the idea in his articles for the next two or three days. They are certainly worth reading.

A few days ago, Walter Lippmann explained that competition was the only way of restoring employment. We, of course, can live better temporarily by dividing what we have and eating the seed corn, but there can only be one result in the long run; namely, a lower standard of living for all.

Fancy Meeting You Here!

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1936)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—There is a lesson in the Maryland primaries which transcends the question of how large or how small a protest vote was recorded there inside the Democratic party. It is what a young man of courage can do almost single-handed in American politics.

The story of Henry Breckinridge and why he offered himself in Pennsylvania and Maryland primaries of the Democratic party is the narrative of a man who believes the New Deal is not in accordance with the traditions of the party of Jefferson and who thinks that, if a candidate in opposition to Mr. Roosevelt were named, it would reveal a large number of the Democratic voters who are not controlled by federal patronage as anxious to show their dissatisfaction.

If Colonel Breckinridge could subtract 16 per cent of the Democratic vote in a state like Maryland, what would an independent Democrat of the quality of Governor Ely of Massachusetts, for instance, be able to do in states in the north and eastern section of the country? This query will be heard again and again in the next few weeks as the question of organizing an independent Democratic ticket, such as was offered to the country in 1896, is considered by the Democrats of the Jeffersonian tradition.

Mr. Breckinridge was assistant-secretary of war under President Wilson and served in Washington at the same time that Franklin Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy. Mr. Breckinridge comes from the old American family of Kentucky which played a vital part in the early history of the republic. When the United States entered the war, Henry Breckinridge entered the service and won the rank of colonel.

In recent years, Colonel Breckinridge came into the limelight as the trusted adviser and attorney for Colonel Lindbergh. In the 1932 campaign, Mr. Breckinridge was manager of the presidential candidacy of Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia. All this background is necessary to indicate that, while Mr. Breckinridge is an excellent speaker and a splendid campaigner, he is by no means as well known nationally as Messrs. Landon, Vandenberg, Borah or Al Smith or any of the other prominent personalities in the major parties. He, moreover, has no following among any group or any financial support that could enlist for him large groups of followers.

Yet the Breckinridge vote in Maryland was 16 per cent of the total cast in the Democratic primary for the presidency. Anybody in Maryland who preferred to cast his ballot for a man who came from another state and hence could not even be called a "favorite son" would have had some grievance against the political philosophy of Franklin Roosevelt.

If there were a 16 per cent defection in the Democratic vote, using the 1932 figures, it would change the 1936 result. Roosevelt 1932 vote of 22,821,857 minus 16 per cent equals 19,170,360. Republican 1932 vote of 15,761,841 plus 3,651,497 Democratic equals 19,413,338.

On the basis of the above, a plurality for Roosevelt of 7,000,016 in 1932 would be changed into a Republican plurality of 242,978 in 1936.
